If individuals are overdue for their annual physical or wellness visit, UnitedHealthcare Customer Care representatives can help connect them to the care they need by scheduling the appointment for them.

One of the most essential elements of this whole enterprise is that the large majority of those involved (the doctors, and even most of their ground-level handlers at the company) actually believe (and must believe) they are doing noble work.